THEODORE THOMAS' CONCERTS.—As will be seen from advertisement in another column this world renowned orchestra and monster concert organization, will give two grand concerts in our city on February 8th and 9th. This company is universally acknowledged to be the largest and most perfect troupe which has ever undertaken a concert tour either in this country or in Europe. The company numbers sixty persons—each and every one of whom is an artist on his respective instrument. This will be by far the greatest musical treat the city has ever known, and one that may never occur again. The sale of seats will commence on Saturday morning, and we expect to see such a demand for seats as was never known before. In Philadelphia, Washington, Richmond and as far as they have come South, they have created the greatest excitement.

DRGIVE'S.—Notwithstanding the extreme cold of last night, Craven's domestic drama, entitled Chimney Corner, was most satisfactorily rendered by the Wyndham Comedy Company, to a good sized and highly appreciative audience. Each member of the cast gave evidence that they were thoroughly up to their several parts, that they possessed ability, and gave satisfactory specimens of genteel and effective acting. It was pleasant to see that the impersonations were unstilted and natural. It was evident that Chimney Corner had been given careful study and rehearsal, consequently the quality of action was good; and the piece received an easy and smooth interpretation. Miss Sydney Cowell is an actress of merit and accomplishment. She is sparkling and bright, and was faultless last evening in her rendition of the character of Grace.

Mrs. Harry Linden gave satisfaction in her personation of Patty Probity. The Peter Probity of George Giddens, was excellent; while Mr. Bruce gave a neat specimen of acting, as John Probity. In fact it is a fine company.

Those who would be pleased at genteel comedy, who would witness a company whose playing has the appearance of reality, who would enjoy acting in its purity, and are disposed to support merit on the stage, will have the opportunity to-night, which is the last of the engagement. Robertson's popular work, Caste, has been selected for the occasion.

OUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS.—We continue our account of the proceedings of the inauguration of our Public Schools yesterday.

Rev. A. T. Spalding, upon being introduced, remarked that he appreciated the difficulty of addressing the audience before him, while the eloquence of the venerable Chancellor was still lingering in their ears and hearts. As a citizen of Atlanta and a native Georgian, he was proud of the Public school system. In early years he resided between two villages in South Carolina. He was the pastor of a church in one and a visitor at the free school in the other. One day at an examination in the school at Graniteville he was present. Mr. Gregg, one of the owners of the factory, addressed the children. "Boys, we are trying to help you on. I see many bare-footed boys before me to-day. Mr. Boyce, (a large owner of shipping in Charleston,) General Wilkinson, (one of the owners of the factory,) and myself were all bare-footed boys once. Climb, boys. God help you climb."

He dwelt upon the educational systems of Rome, Greece and the tribes of Israel, and alluded to Moses, Pythagoras and Plato. Moses demanded that every son should be taught history and the law. He thanked God that he was a plebeian—one of the people. He was opposed to sectarianism in schools, and trusted no faith or creed would attempt to thrust their ideas in them, whether Protestant or Catholic, Jew or Gentile. Boys were sent to school to learn the business of life, and girls to acquire that knowledge they would fit and prepare them for the discharge of their duties. A woman should at least know what 3½ pounds of fish would come to at 3½ cents per pound. [Applause.]

Dr. S. H. Stout blushingly responded to the request of the President to address the audience. Dr. Stout labored earnestly, zealously and unstintingly in behalf of this system, and he was perfectly enthused on this occasion at the fruition of his efforts. The power and benefit of diffusion was strikingly illustrated in our railroads, telegraphs, etc. We were yet in a formative state. The diffusion of education by this system would be the great lever in promoting the future welfare of Atlanta. It will fix our present population, and invite large additions to it. The movement came from the people, and they were ripe for it. The teachers were a unit in its favor. The people, without regard to race, color, nationality or sectional lines, were united on it. The Board of Education is composed of unselfish, liberal, progressive and large-hearted gentlemen, who will faithfully carry out the movement. The selection of the Superintendent was a most fortunate one. He was the man to head such a movement, for North or South he stood without a peer.

The teachers of Atlanta was as fine a body as he had ever seen, and their selection by the Board inspired confidence. They were as able a corps as could be found anywhere. The Public School system was the people's system, and politicians who wished to be on the popular side must show their hand unequivocally or retire back seat. It was a plain and practical speech, and heartily applauded.

Rev. G. J. Orr, State School Commissioner, in response to the invitation of the President, said that he was in full sympathy with the Public School system. Wonderful progress had been made in Georgia in education. In Jackson county, where he was born, in the days of his boyhood there was but one man in the county who had ever been to college. The same was true of other counties. The teachers in those days were unfit for their offices. In their prospectus and articles of agreement they proposed to teach only the three R's—viz: Reading, Riting and Rithmetic.

The old field school system had been pictured fully by Judge Longstreet, in his St. Johns, and Philman Perch in his Israel Meadows. The speaker had a painful recollection of his teacher, who was the counterpart of Dickens' "Wackford Squeers."

The light first appeared at the University, and its influence went downward. Education was now like the light of Heaven, and the gushing fountain of water, free to all. [Applause.]

Judge H. K. McCay, of the Supreme Court, was next called upon by the President, and responded in a happy and forcible effort. Under this system a child could be educated at a cost of $1 per month, while under the old systems it cost from five to six dollars per month. Most men labor for the future. They labor to establish a family and to provide for the future wants of that family. He illustrated this very forcibly by the nobility of Europe, with their laws of Primogeniture and Entail. Here, while we had no orders of nobility, the rich man of to-day was the poor man of to-morrow. The rich man should not object to support this system, for he was providing for the future of his children and grandchildren. Luxury and ease enervates; toil and labor strengthens and builds up. It was providing a system by which your grandchildren may attain the position held by you. The money thus spent would be diffused in good through successive generations. [Applause.]

Hon. John H. James, Mayor, said that he was the friend of the movement from first to last, although not connected with the Board until elected Mayor. He pledged all his influence for the system. His children were too small to be benefitted by them now, and it would cost him from $600 to $1,000 in the shape of taxes. He was proud to be able to contribute that much towards the education of the bare-footed boys and girls. He belonged once to that class, and never attended any other school than the R. R. R school alluded to by Rev. Mr. Orr. He closed by saying: "My heart is with you. God bless the Public Schools." [Enthusiastic applause.]

President Brown, in concluding the exercises, remarked that the Board of Education had taken hold of the matter in earnest, and knew no such word as fail. There were between 600 and 700 children yet unprovided for. That void would be met. Houses would be rented until the city could erect new buildings. He alluded to the presence of Judge Ezzard, who was Mayor when this movement was first put on foot, and awarded him great honor for his efforts. It would be cheaper for him to send his children to school under the old system. He gloried in the right and privilege to be taxed for this system. [Great applause.]

The growth of Atlanta would be incomplete without it.

He then, in a graphic manner, reviewed the progress made in locomotion by land and sea, and the transmission of messages by telegraph.

He then delivered the keys of the Public Schools to Superintendent Mallon, stating that the Board had the utmost confidence in him and the corps of teachers. The people of Atlanta and of Georgia have their interests pro-

Superintendent Mallon, in a graceful manner, expressed his thanks for the honor conferred, and the confidence reposed in him and the teachers with him. He represented both the board and the teachers, and would be a co-worker with them. Parents should help in the work. Many of the rules were new to the pupils, and parents should help their children in the work.

Thus ended the Inauguration of the Public Schools of Atlanta. Get your boys

TRANSFORMING THE COMPLEXION.—The transformation produced by Hagan's Magnolia Balm are quite as astonishing as any scene on the stage of a theater. That famous beautifier, transmutes a sallow, pasky looking complexion, into one in which the lily and the rose vie for admiration, and imparts to a dry, harsh skin, the softness of perfect loveliness. Tan and freckles, which country air and sunlight are pretty sure to produce, in spite of parasols and sundowns, are completely obliterated by it; while it has a perfectly magical effect in banishing undue redness, blotches and pimples from the skin. When the lady who has used it to remedy her complexional defects looks in the mirror, she is equally astounded and gratified at the improvements in her appearance. Every blemish has disappeared; her neck, arms and bosom, now rival in whiteness the snowy collar which encircles her throat, her cheek mantles with a peach-like bloom, and she is ready to invoke a blessing on the inventor of the article which has wrought such a delightful transformation.

FRAUDULENT MISREPRESENTATIONS.—Among the pernicious frauds of the period, there is one which especially deserves the reprehension of all who place a proper value on health and life. The swindle referred to consists in the attempts of irresponsible parties, in different sections of the United States, to force upon the market vile astringent compounds manufactured out of damaged or worthless drugs and refuse liquors, as preparations possessing the rare medicinal virtues of the most popular and efficacious of all vegetable tonics and alteratives—Hostetter's Stomach Bitters.

The concoctors of these "local bitters" are, in the truest sense of the phrase, public enemies. The fiery potions inflame the stomachs, stupify the brains, and shatter the nerves of those who are unwise enough to accept them as substitutes for the famous Vegetable Invigorant, that for twenty years has been known throughout the Western Hemisphere as a standard article.

The fame of Hostetter's Bitters as a health-preserving, vitalizing medicine, is as wide as the world, and the miserable attempts of needy nostrum-mongers to supplant it would be treated with silent contempt, were it not that serious consequences sometimes follows the use of the nefarious compounds in question. Whoever recommends any of them as remedies for Dyspepsia, Billiousness, Constipation, Intermittent Fever, Rheumatism, or any other complaint for which Hostetter's Bitters is guilty of moral, if not a legal misdemeanor. At this season, when the sun is releasing from the earth, in the form of unwholesome vapors, the active principle of disease, a course of Hostetter's Bitters will be of the utmost service to persons with feeble constitutions.

Thurman on Nye.

Senator Nye, of Nevada, is one of the typical Radicals in Congress. Half buffoon, half scamp, and whole gump, his status is well recognized. Senator Thurman, of Ohio, thus tickled Nye in the debate on amnesty:

"Mr. President, I am not accustomed to attempt impossibilities. It would be unwise in one who has far more ability than I have, and it certainly would be very foolish in me to attempt to do an impossibility, and, therefore I would never attempt to make the Senator from Nevada understand a constitutional argument. [Laughter.] That is a thing that would be perfectly hopeless."

A New Federal Court Proposed in Georgia.

R. H. Whiteley, the Radical Congressman from the Second Georgia District, has introduced a bill to divide the State into two Judicial districts, and have another Federal Judge in Southern Georgia. This will divide Judge Erskine's jurisdiction, and the probable object of it is to supply Whiteley with a fat office when he retires from Congress.

Whiteley has shown himself to be a shrewd fellow, full of keen strategy to take care of himself. He contended, at the time, for a seat both in the United States Senate and House, and get pay for both, when elected to neither. He has taken a look ahead. Seeing the downfall of Radicalism in Georgia, and the muzzling of the public pap for his life, the thrifty, sharp-sighted vulture is providing a nest for future roosting.

We agree with the Savannah Republican, that two Judges are unnecessary. Judge Erskine is able and satisfactory. He performs the duties well. Economy dictates that it will be better to increase his salary from $3,500 to $5,000, and thus spend $1,500 more in paying a good Judge than in incurring $10,000 expense to make a new court simply to provide for some repudiated carpet-bag or impecunious carpet-bagger.

The New Apportionment.

The Senate amendment to the House apportionment bill has passed; the House has agreed to the amendment, and the bill gone to the President.

The law, as it now stands, makes the number of Representatives 243, as follows:

STATE.	REPS.	STATE.	REPS.
Maine	4	Kentucky	9
New Hampshire	2	Tennessee	8
Vermont	3	Indiana	11
Massachusetts	9	Illinois	14

The additional representatives gained by any State shall be elected from the State at large, unless the Legislature otherwise provides. The Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1872, and the same day every second year shall be the days of election. No new State shall be admitted without enough people to entitle one representative. Any State that abridges the right of any citizen to vote, save for rebellion or crime, shall have its representation diminished according to the voters disfranchised.

Chief Justice Warner.

"The appointment of Judge Warner to the Chief Justiceship of the Supreme Court, gives general satisfaction," says THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION. We beg leave to differ. While we have the utmost respect for the legal character and ability of Judge Warner, we still regard him as among the fossils of the day, whose period of active usefulness is past. Among the hundreds of able jurists of the State, scarcely could be selected who would give so general satisfaction both to the bar and the people. To say nothing of the Judge's great age, his political views have rendered him as much as the people of Georgia for the past ten years. He is now sadding upon the State in the highest judicial position for twelve years, at the expiration of which time he will be nearly 90 years of age, should he live.—Griffin Star.

We regret to see such an article as the above from the Democratic press. It is alike incorrect in statement and unjust in tone. Chief Justice Warner has been appointed to fill the unexpired term of Ex-Chief Justice Brown, a period of eight and not twelve years. This is by act of justice, and not recognition of Mark, as it was proposing Judge Warner to the Chief Justiceship, to which he was originally appointed by Governor Bullock, and about which he was thrust down by the Bullock dynasty.

He was already an Associate Justice, and the change in his status gives him no vote or power he did not have before.

Judge Warner's high character, splendid legal abilities and great services to the State, richly warrant the compliment paid him by Governor Smith.

We feel assured that upon reflection on the real facts our contemporary will regret the injustice of its article. Judge Warner is still very ill. We trust that he may be long spared to the State.

Queen Guild" in London is a reminder of the many recent of the many projects to arrest the [illegible] which [illegible] and extravagance in dress. [illegible] their [illegible] ...ry. ...ch was most strongly indorsed and seconded by Miss. Phoebe Cary, and it was [illegible] ...ment [illegible] ...th which prevailed it from becoming its actual fact. The circular had been drawn up and a list of the names of those ladies made up, who were to be invited to her house to aid in the formation of a Dress Association, to include every woman in the whole country who would make the reduction of the short waisting from the first profits of her dress, and who could be depended on and prevented the abominable [illegible] ...

The proposed rules for the London "Woman's Dress Guild" are the following and they are subscribed to by a number of ladies of social position and distinction:

1. Not to make purchases unless they can be paid for at the time or when the account is sent in.

2. Never to buy anything simply "because it is cheap."

3. To dress in a manner befitting the station or occupation in life of the member.

4. To consider the personal tastes of heads of families within the limits of these rules, but not to make anything a plea for personal [illegible]

5. To use nothing false for mere purposes of ornament, or because it is the fashion, such as false jewelry, false hair, etc.

6. To avoid all exaggerations belonging to the fashions of the day which might attract improper attention.

7. To avoid all unseemly style of dress, however much it may be encouraged by the popular fashion of the moment.

8. To attend most scrupulously to neatness and cleanliness, and not to waste needlessly either time, (in frequent changes of dress,) money, or dress itself.

These rules are to receive as sensible a sanction as they deserve. [illegible] ...ionable, a blind adherence to fashion presupposes absence of common sense, and a disregard of modesty and propriety when they interfere with the caprice of the moment, but they may influence it, and they are interesting as showing which way the wind is blowing from different quarters of the earth just now.

A PANIC IN FASHION.

[illegible] ...ere is at the present moment [illegible] ...of [illegible] ...leaders and extremists of a la mode, which [illegible] ...the highest class of cultivated and refined women. Retribution [illegible] ...seem like the act of an avenging Providence, has followed it in so many instances, a great parade of wealth and display, that [illegible] ...the same class, generally ignorant, [illegible] ...longing in at least questionable rank, have been seized with a fear of divine vengeance, and in other prominent cases contemplated a habit of novelty, and a life of almost monastic seclusion.

If we [illegible] ...of sufficient power [illegible] ...the [illegible] ...

[illegible] ...the strictly scientific and positive spirit of the times to be able to let loose the winged steeds of a fiery and not too scrupulous imagination.

They indulge in any quantity of moral reflections, but they are too general, too didactic and too refined to strike terror with the hearts of sinners.

Imagine a woman spending seven thousand dollars upon lace one week, and finding the next that the sources of her supply had vanished like the baseless fabric of a dream, and that the garnitures and flounces would henceforth be as many millstones about her neck, as they could be of no use in her future life. Another lady recently had her dwelling sold under the hammer, who, for weeks before, had had the most contemptuous of Stewart's dry goods palace astonished to her private inspection, and finding nothing to wear, had sent an order direct to Paris, which has not yet been filled, and probably now, never will be. The [illegible] ...ness [illegible] ...was, ten years ago, a journeyman mechanic, and his wife [illegible] ...a plain, washing it [illegible] ...ed [illegible] ...which they occupied [illegible]

The [illegible] ...has been singularly barren of any great entertainments, since Prince Alexis departed. The holidays and the quiet social parties, which always follow, have alone disturbed the monotony of our regular succession of cold, snow, thaw and rain and intermediate sunshine.

This month, however, is particularly devoted to the few great public balls which it is, if not de rigeur, at least pardonable to attend. If not many new dresses are reported at these balls, the ladies who attend them are much too experienced and well supplied for that. It is only the vulgar, and those persons who buy cheap stuffs and therefore never have anything to wear, who think they require new dress for every occasion.

What is now at these places, are the garnitures, and trimmings. A delicate silk, half worn, will be freshened up with muslin flounces, a lace over dress with new flowers or a silk skirt made available by the addition of a light grenadine Polonaise.

The [illegible] ...most remarkable [illegible] ...dress [illegible] ...present time, is black velvet in [illegible] ...the most elegant of cloaks; in light carved tinted silk, trimmed with black and white lace, it constitutes, in conjunction with a trained black silk skirt, a most distinguished dinner or half evening toilette; in white striped gauze or grenadine it is worn over evening silk skirts, or dresses which without some such providential intervention would be no longer wearable, and in chintz, jaconet, merino and other material fabrics it composes the simple, easy, yet not ungraceful in-door costume of nine-tenths of the women, fashionable and unfashionable.

[illegible] ...is [illegible] ...and it is not surprising, for it is very effective. Among the prettiest dresses are some of light, green silk, trimmed with luchings or plaitings of fine white muslin or tarleton.

[illegible] ...contrasts are much worn, occasionally [illegible] ...even tarleton with white overdress. On the contrary, of [illegible] ...the French [illegible] ...are so generally [illegible] ...colored silk, that they undoubtedly constitute every lady's wardrobe, who makes any pretensions to [illegible] ...

The [illegible] ...is [illegible] ...the silk was cut out to represent flowers and foliage, and [illegible] ...of [illegible] ...or gravelines, which formed so conspicuous a part of the fall exhibitions and importations, are rarely seen, and do not seem to have served as models for [illegible] ...that make this appearance are evidently the original copies, bought at half price, and elaborate though they are, full of the fine effect [illegible] ...

PARK AND SQUARE IMPROVEMENTS.—From the Savannah papers we find Alderman John O. Ferrill, Chairman of Parks and Squares, is complimented for his efficiency and taste in keeping up the streets and parks of the city.

We shall seek for some opportunity to compliment some Atlanta Alderman for his attention to streets.

PERSONAL.—Mr. Atwood, the energetic and gentlemanly agent of the Berger Family Swiss Bell Ringers, called at this office on yesterday. Mr. Atwood seemed in fine spirits, and should he, for he represents a first class company.

We had the pleasure of a call last night from Otto Hilpert, Esq., agent and correspondent of the Westliche Post, of St. Louis.

INTELLECTUAL COMBAT.—The card of James L. Dunning, champion of the chignon and Knight errant of the bustle, with lance en arrier, throwing down the gauntlet for intellectual combat has been accepted by J. T. Spence, a young man of considerable gladiatorial skill. The town is all agog to witness the battle. It is proposed that the discussion take place at DeGive's Opera House and that an admission fee of twenty five cents be charged, and the proceeds be appropriated either to the Ladies' Memorial Association or the City Hospital.

THE WOMAN'S FRIEND.—Mr. A. B. Fears yesterday exhibited, at the residence of John F. Morris, the practical operations of his steam washer, appropriately called the woman's friend. It was placed on a No. 7 cook stove and in thirty minutes, dirty clothes were thoroughly cleansed without rubbing, and unbleached goods were bleached. The washer contains a false bottom in the center of which is a valve. The soap is placed between the false and true bottom, and enough water put in to cover the top of the valve. The clothes can then be packed in closely. The water goes through the valve into the lower chamber, where it is forced to each side and comes up channels on each side and pours out into the center of the washer, and sinking down finds its way again to the valve, and so continues its round. It consumes less soap, labor and water. And the family washing can be done at the same time that breakfast is being cooked. Mrs. Morris, who is a practical woman and a lady of fine judgment, commends it highly We are satisfied that it will do all that is claimed for it, and that it is a good thing to have about the house.

MUSICAL.—Prof. C. C. Pratt, assisted by his wife, is to inaugurate a series of benevolent concerts in Atlanta, the present week. Their first concert will take place at the First Presbyterian Church on Friday evening.

These artists are widely known as vocalists and popular instructors in the divine art. The press speak of them in the highest terms. As an evidence of which we quote the following from the Watchtower, published at Adrian, Michigan:

"Prof. Pratt, as a vocal performer, is all that is claimed, and as a ballad singer, he has few, if any, equals, in the grandeur of expression, which gives force to the concept ons of the poet; he is justly entitled to the appellation, by common consent, awarded him: 'The great American Vocalist.' * * * Mrs Pratt has a surprisingly sweet voice, exciting those pleasurable emotions which are the peculiar attractions of the concert room. It, however, seems almost superfluous for us to mention their accomplishments, as they are too well known and appreciated by the musical world to need any praise from us"

C. C. PRATT.—This gentleman enjoys a fine reputation, not only as a vocalist, but also as a conductor of musical conventions. In 1869 he conducted the Indiana State Musical Convention, at Madison. (This was the largest musical gathering of Americans ever convened west of the Alleghanies.) In 1870 he conducted a like convent on of nearly the same numbers in Pennsylvania, in relation to which the Crawford Journal, Meadville, Pennsylvania, January 26, 1871, speaks as follows:

"Pennsylvania State Musical Convention: * It is freely admitted by the musical celebrities from abroad, that this convention is the most satisfactory affair of the kind that ever came off in Pennsylvania—there being over five hundred and fifty singers and instrumentalists in attendance. * The concert on last Friday evening, in which the entire chorus participated, was a grand success. Every body who was present came away highly delighted. * Professor Pratt, the conductor, has few if any equals as a leader of a grand chorus"

We hope our musical people will take an interest in musical culture, and induce this gentleman to hold a like convention in Atlanta, for we know of no better point than this for such an enterprise.

THEODORE THOMAS' CONCERTS.—The advertisement of this magnificent troupe will be found in our columns. We shall hereafter speak of its merits more fully. It will be no fine a musical treat as was ever afford to our citizens.

We copy an extract from the Richmond Dispatch, which relates a graceful episode of tribute by this troupe to George Washington:

The Concert at Assembly Hall last night, given by the Thomas orchestra, drew together the largest audience ever assembled within its walls. The performance was in every way equal to the great reputation of the artists composing the organization, and elicited the enthusiastic applause of the disinthralled and refined public present. The perfection of orchestral playing was never better demonstrated than upon this occasion, and caused the audience to remain almost spell-bound during the execution of the various compositions offered for their enjoyment.

Miss Kellogg won the sympathy of her listeners by her graceful and artistic rendition of the elaborate parts allotted to her, and displayed how thorough has been her training in the best schools of music. All the hour at which we write, it is of course impossible to do entire justice to a performance so uniformly admirable. We can only advise those who were not fortunate enough to be present last night to avoid disappointment of the opportunity to-night.

A pleasing incident occurred during the trip of the excursion from Washington to Acquia creek. While passing Mount Vernon, Mr. Thomas summoned the members of his company together, and under his direction the tune of "Columbia" was played by the Thomas chorus, the Peixotto, over the last resting place of Maryland's Greatest, George Washington.

THE ATLANTA MEDICAL AND SURGICAL JOURNAL.—The January number comes to us laden with its usual rich store of original matter—no less than 48 of its 53 pages containing contributions of the highest scientific interest to the medical profession.

The Atlanta Journal seems to aim at something higher than to be a vehicle for crude receipts and the little waffe floating on the great sea of medical knowledge.

While a portion is devoted to judicious selections from the current medical literature of the day, a much larger part is dedicated to the great principles and practical precepts which constitute the science of medicine.

With such claims—with its able corps of contributors from every section of the country, we can readily see why the editors congratulate themselves, in the present number, on a constantly increasing circulation; and on the many encouragements received in their efforts to build up a journal which will compare favorably with any in the land.

Its location is more accessible to all parts of New York and Brooklyn than any other hotel in the city. The Broadway Stages pass the hotel every three minutes, besides various lines of Street cars, one of which intersects every other route in New York.

It being but two blocks from Fulton Ferry, makes it convenient for those wishing to visit the City of Churches," as from this ferry diverges all the principal railroad routes in the city of Brooklyn.

KISSES!

I.

Kisses, kisses fond and tender,
Flow unbidden from hearts of love
As the world in silence slumbers,
And Creation's untold numbers
O'er the dust-born nestling drove.

II.

Kisses, kisses soft and solemn,
Fall with whispered words of prayer,
As "the dying mother mild"
Leaves, in agony, her child
To the World's uncertain care.

III.

Kisses, kisses cold and careless,
To the Orphan's heart are known,
And the dearth of life's fond loving
Through his friendless bosom moving
Forms his soul's sad undertone.

IV.

Kisses, kisses, rapturous kisses,
Seal the troth just newly given,
And the heart's wild agitation
Stirred by Love's fond affection
Dreams in pilgrim'd bliss of Heaven.

V.

Kisses, kisses, tender kisses,
Fill the heart with wild delight,
When the orange wreath'n his fair
Twining midst the clustering hair
On Love's beauteous bridal night.

VI.

Kisses, blessing, aching hearts
Bend to Him as death draws nigh,
And in eyes once sparkling bright
Brings its fearful, starless night,
And takes our treasure to the sky,

VII.

Kisses cold, in cruel anguish,
On sweet, silent lips are pressed
When the soul emancipated
Walks in light, by love translated,
And in Heaven will ever rest.

The total wool product of the United States in 1870, was 163,000,000 pounds, exceeding any previous year, except 1868. The wheat crop in England last year, is estimated at 76,000,000 bushels.

[CONDENSED FOR THE CONSTITUTION.]

The import of dry goods last year amounted to $123,200,000.

Philadelphia exports 55,363,317 gallons of petroleum during 1871.

Eighty thousand hogs were slaughtered at Kansas City, Missouri, during the season.

The production of pig iron in the United States in 1871 is estimated at 1,850,000 tons.

It requires 65,000 cochineal insects to make one pound in weight. The United States imported last year 1,849,848 pounds.

Twenty-two thousand one hundred and fifty-six barrels of sperm oil, and 18,141 barrels whale oil, and 387,199 pounds of bone were imported into the United States in 1871.

General Wade Hampton.—We learn from the Baltimore Methodist that this beloved and distinguished Carolinian contemplates the probability of removing his residence to that city. We are selfish enough to feel regret at the announcement, and this feeling—that we know is in sympathy with that of our whole people—is only relieved by the hope that our loss will be his gain, and that there, in the midst of a community which has so signally illustrated every generous and noble sentiment of humanity, he will find the means of better fulfilling the high purposes of a life which has hitherto been consecrated by its devotion to the good of his fellow-citizens.—Columbia South Carolinian.

Sensible Suggestion.—Mrs. Elizabeth Churchill tells the girls that the best novels ever written will hurt them if they read nothing else—that they will grow sentimental, morbid, and self-seeking, while common duties will become distasteful and common pleasures insipid. Mrs. C——believes that half the wretched marriages spring from the romantic vapid reading of our girls, and that the wise can talk sensibly of the current topics of the day, who can tell whether Santo Domingo is one of the Orkney Islands or not, and whether, on the whole, she wants to be annexed; who reads Spencer and Ruskin and Stuart Mill, doesn't throw her life into the care of the first booby or rous who asks her to do so, because it is romantic to be engaged.

Stock Raising.—A writer in the San Antonio Herald thinks a great change must be made in the stock business in Western Texas. He says the range grows shorter, weeds spring up and choke out the grass, and the range of the almost entirely destroyed. He looks to pasturing as a remedy, but thinks a better class of stock must be introduced and receive more attention. The same remarks apply to horses and sheep. Notwithstanding the immense numbers of horses in Western Texas, it is often difficult for army purchasing officers to find horses suitable for mounting the frontier cavalry.

The Pork Pack of the West.—The Louisville Commercial Gazette of the 20th says: The pork-packing season is drawing to a close, with an improved feeling among dealers, owing to the light supplies during the week at Chicago and Cincinnati where packing houses at each place have closed operations. The consecutive packing up to date up to the 20th is 650,000 hogs this year at Cincinnati against 448,810 last year, at Chicago 878,000 this year, against 1,000,000 last year. At nearly all the points the packers have packed all they wanted and have closed.

City Hospital.

THE need of a CITY HOSPITAL in Atlanta has long been felt, and all efforts heretofore for the establishment of such have failed, our people being too poor to raise the money necessary for such a purpose and the depressed condition of our State Treasury rendering successful legislation in the matter both impracticable and hopeless.

We, therefore, propound to appeal to all friends of so benevolent a project, and they seem to promise to encourage an increase of the private donations already promised, which will render the scheme a success; and while the erection of such an institution will be an enduring Monument to the Charity and Liberality of our citizens, it will also be in keeping with our onward march in the cause of Civilization and Progress.

For every Two Dollars subscribed, an equal interest will be given the holder of Certificate thereof in the distribution of $75,000 Worth of Property,

Numbering 1,500 Articles

To be distributed by the Managing Commissioners as soon as all the Shares are taken.

50,000 Shares

—AT—

$2,00 Each $100,000

The value of the separate interest to which the holder of certificate will be entitled will be determined by the Commissioners who will announce to the public the manner, the time, and the place of distribution.

The following gentlemen are to act as Commissioners, and will receive and take proper charge of the money for the Hospital, and will determine upon the plan and site for the same, to-wit:

L. H. GRME, M. D.,
J. F. ALEXANDER, M. D.,
E. S. RAY, M. D.

All friends to our benevolent object are requested to aid our Manager as much as possible in the arduous labor devolving upon him. Send for circular.

HARDENING THE GUMS

Imparting a delightfully refreshing taste and feeling to the mouth, removing all tartar and scurf from the teeth, completely arresting the progress of decay and whitening such cavities in the teeth as have already become black by decay.

IMPURE BREATH.

A most disagreeable consequence that follows fast the decay of the teeth, an impure breath must be the most unpleasant and mortifying to the as it is the most disagreeable exhibition in society. How often the sensitive are made miserable at dinner entertainments where even the best of friends, or perhaps the one most fondly cherished, from this cause. You are ignorant of the fact yourself, the subject is so delicate no friend intimate or friend will not mention it. What you require in this case is your mouth, teeth and breath purified, at once, by using that justly popular Dentifrice and efficient Soozodont, the most economical and effectual preparation of the toilet the world has ever produced.

Sold by druggists everywhere at 75 cents per bottle.
